Job Summary

Paramedics work in high-stress, unpredictable, and often dangerous situations, and require a vast knowledge base to accurately assess and respond to patient conditions. As front-line providers, paramedics are vital to assessing and managing medical emergencies, providing pre-hospital care to those in need. Responsibilities of the Paramedic include performing physical exams, administering medication, utilizing medical equipment, providing triage, and transporting patients to appropriate medical facilities. With knowledge of anatomy and physiology, pharmacology, and a broad range of medical procedures and techniques, these medical professionals save countless lives every year. The following is a detailed job description of the Paramedic, outlining the essential duties and requirements of the job.

- Responding to emergency calls and providing immediate medical attention to patients at the scene.
- Assessing the condition of patients and determining the necessary medical interventions.
- Administering appropriate emergency medical treatments following established protocols.
- Transporting patients safely to medical facilities, ensuring their comfort and utilizing advanced life support techniques when required.
- Providing accurate and concise medical documentation of patient assessments, treatments, and outcomes.
- Collaborating with other emergency medical services personnel, doctors, and healthcare professionals to ensure coordinated and effective patient care.
- Maintaining and restocking medical supplies, equipment, and vehicles to ensure readiness for emergency response.
- Participating in ongoing training and continuing education to stay updated on the latest advancements in emergency medical care.
- Adhering to all relevant laws, regulations, and ethical standards in the provision of emergency medical services.
- Assisting with public education and outreach initiatives to promote awareness of emergency medical services and injury prevention.
- Mentor and supervise students and new staff.
- Assisting in the Emergency Department is expected and is within the scope of practice to the level of Paramedic. Such duties may include vital signs, IV insertions, preparation of rooms, direct observation of patients, procedure assistance, and various jobs that can assist in patient care and the Emergency Department flow. Specific department policies and procedures should be followed. Attendance in ED training opportunities are encouraged as they arise within the department. These expectations and job assignments are subject to change as the needs of the hospital deem appropriate. Patient transfers to the floor or other assignments to locations that inhibit prompt ambulance response times should be limited.
- All other duties as assigned.

Qualifications

- A valid Paramedic Certification is required.
- CPR/ACLS/PALS Certifications are required.
- Valid driving license and a clean driving record required.

*The hourly wage for this position is $26.57/hour to $43.23/ hour, with a median wage of $34.90/hour. It is not typical for an individual to be hired at or near the top of the range for their role. Compensation decisions are dependent on the facts and circumstance of each case and on several factors including relevant work experience, education, certification & licensure, and internal equity. Hourly pay is just one part of the compensation package for employees.
